Indonesia Likely To Control West N.G. Next May

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (A.P.)—Indonesia is expected to sign the West New Guinea agreement with the Dutch authorities on August 17—the anniversary of Indonesian independence.

After the signing of the Indonesian agreement with the Netherlands, Indonesia is expected to receive full control over the future of West New Guinea. The signing of the agreement marks a significant step towards the independence of Indonesia, which has been striving for its sovereignty over the region for many years.

The agreement is expected to outline the terms and conditions for the transition of control from the Netherlands to Indonesia. It is hoped that this will bring stability and peace to the region.

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages

On Other Pages